Six Die On Kentucky Roadways Last Week

Preliminary statistics* indicate that six people died in six separate crashes on Kentucky's roadways from Monday, July 16 through Sunday, July 22, 2012.

Four of the fatalities were the result of motorcycle crashes. All four victims were not wearing helmets. One fatality was operating a moped. One fatality was a pedestrian.

Single-fatality crashes occurred in Clark, Fayette, Floyd, Knox, Marion and Marshall counties.

Through July 22, preliminary statistics* indicate that 414 people have lost their lives on Kentucky roadways during 2012. This is 34 more than reported for this time period in 2011. Of the 331 motor vehicle fatalities, 186 victims were not wearing seat belts. Of the 47 motorcycle fatalities, 26 were not wearing a helmet. Two of the three ATV fatalities were not wearing a helmet. Thirty-one pedestrians, one bicycle rider and one moped/scooter rider have been killed. A total of 69 fatalities have resulted from crashes involving the suspected use of alcohol.

Citizens can contribute to highway safety by reporting erratic drivers to the Kentucky State Police toll-free at 1-800-222-5555. Callers will remain anonymous and should give a description of the vehicle, location, direction of travel and license number if possible.

*These statistics are still preliminary as KSP waits for all local law enforcement agencies throughout the state to report any crashes and fatalities that may have occurred in their areas.

Hospital Board Votes To Adopt 3.7 Cents Tax

BY PAUL B. HAYES
EDITOR

Meeting in a special-called session Friday at noon, the Adair County Public Hospital Board of Trustees (Westlake Board of Trustees) voted to adopt a 3.7 cents per $100 of assessed value ad valorem property tax.

Money collected from the tax will be used to pay the debt owed after the sale of the hospital and its satellite clinics to LifePoint Hospitals. It is not known for sure what the amount of the debt will be after the sale, but it has been estimated to be $3 million or more.

Board chairman James Evans said the hospital district board is required by state statute and constitutional law to pay all of its debts, so "the board has no choice" but to implement the tax.

When Evans called for a motion to impose the tax, board member Russell Guy Perkins made the motion and it was seconded by board member Bruce White.

Prior to the vote, both White and fellow board member Josh Harden read statements saying each had a potential conflict of LifePoint Hospitals has presented Westlake Regional Hospital with the first draft of the asset purchase agreement to purchase the facility and its satellite clinics, and the final paperwork may be ready in time for it to be signed at next Tuesday's regular meeting of the Board of Trustees.

Ken Doran, Spectrum Health Partners CEO who is serving as sales agent for the hospital, said Tuesday in a telephone interview that they have received the first draft of the asset purchase agreement.

"We received the first draft of the agreement, and we've already sent it back to them with a few notes about it," Doran said. "An agreement has been reached, we're just doing little fine tuning right

School Board Hears Construction Update

BY WES FEESE

The Adair County School Board met for their regular monthly meeting last Thursday night, and heard from Branscum Construction representative Jonathan Smith about the progress of the new elementary school, on which construction began this month.

"We've got all the tree clearing done," said Smith. "And blasting for rock has started." Smith said that at upcoming meetings he will present both a summary of work that has been done in the previous month as well as lay out construction plans for the upcoming month.

New superintendent Alan Reed was pleased with the report, stating, "Things are going very well with that construction."

In other business at the very brief meeting the board:

Aug. 14 Final Day To File For City Council, School Board Races

BY PAUL B. HAYES
EDITOR

The six seats on the Columbia City Council and three of the five seats on the Adair County Board of Education are up for election this year, and candidates have until 4 p.m. on Aug. 14 to file their candidacy papers, according to County Clerk Sheila Blair.

To date, two of the six current members of the Columbia City Council – Robert Flowers and Jim Hadley – have filed to seek another term on the city's governing body. Present council members who have not filed for re-election to date are June Parson, Craig Dean, Linda Waggener and Tony Grider.

The three board of education seats up for election this year are in Division 2, 4 and 5.

The District 2 seat is currently held by Marsha Walker, the District 4 seat by Floyd Burton and the District 5 seat by Mike Harris.

LWC Math Professors Wins National Canoe Competition

Scott Dillery's interest in white-water canoeing recently led to a national achievement.

Dillery -- a Campbellsville, Ky., resident who is a Lindsey Wilson College associate professor of mathematics -- won a national championship at the White Water Open Canoe Downriver Nationals, held in June on the Nantahala River in near Wesser, N.C.

Dillery and and his partner, Zaak Havens of Michigan, completed an eight-mile course on the Nantahala River in just under 56 minutes to become national champions in the men's 18-39 OC-2 F16 class. Although Dillery is 51 years old, the duo competed in the 18-39 age group because Havens is 24.

Havens and Dillery also competed in the sprint course, covering it 7:30.9 for the silver, 6.9 seconds behind the first-place team; and Dillery competed individually at the event, earning a fifth-place

Anymore, it seems like just when one terrible massacre of innocent people is beginning to fade in your memory, along comes another one that is far worse and even less understandable.

The shooting rampage that 24-year-old James Holmes went on inside a packed movie theater Friday night (or early Saturday morning) in Aurora, Colorado at the start of a special screening of the Batman movie "The Dark Knight Rises" that left 12 people dead and 58 wounded almost defies belief. Why would someone don full body armor, arm themselves with an automatic rifle, shotgun, pistol and gas canisters then walk into a theater filled with strangers, throw the gas canisters and open fire? Right now it's a question that doesn't have an answer, as Holmes is not talking and he is the only one who knows his motive.

Apparently, this wasn't a shooting related to religion, or perceived revenge as a couple of high school shootings were supposedly based on. It was a very deliberate, well-planned execution of innocent strangers.

The shooting spree has dominated the news ever since it has happened, and all the news coverage has done is increase the number of people wanting to know, "Why?" According to what I've read and seen on television, Holmes, who grew up in California, has been described as a brilliant individual who graduated at the top of his class in high school and in college, and until dropping out in June, was enrolled in an elite graduate program in neuroscience at the University of Colorado-Denver. Acquaintances described him as somewhat of a loner, but he had shown no signs of turning into a mass murderer.

However, the weekend massacre had apparently been in the making for quite some time. Officials say that he had stockpiled his weapons and ammunition over a period of six months or so, buying everything legally. He also apparently didn't plan on going back to the apartment where he lived, because he did tell the law enforcement officers who arrested him that the apartment was booby trapped. The police chief in Aurora said the apartment was rigged with jars of liquids, explosives and chemicals that could have killed anyone who entered it- something that Holmes downstairs neighbor almost did after he had set a timer that caused very loud music to start playing about the time he went on his shooting spring and she went to his door to complain. I heard some analysts theorize that he had probably hoped the apartment would blow up, so that would attract a lot of law enforcement and emergency responders to that area of town, lessening the numbers that would be at the theater and possibly even letting him escape.

I've heard people say, "What's the world coming to when you can't go to watch a movie without taking a chance on getting killed?" I can't answer that, and I don't think anyone else can either. But, there's no doubt that we are living in a very dangerous world, and it seems to be getting worse by the day.

Some Adair County Veterans: Spanish-American War & Philippine Insurrection 1898-1902

We should all be mindful of our veterans, past and present, and those who yet serve the United States. The next few columns will contain brief biographical sketches of some Adair Countians who served in various conflicts. The following represent the men who served in the Spanish-American War and in the Philippine Islands following the ouster of the Spanish. This latter conflict, formerly called the Philippine Insurrection, is more commonly known today as the Philippine-American War.

An effort is being made to identify all the veterans of the era who were from Adair County, who lived here, and those who left here before the conflict and served in other units.

Any reader who can add names to this or any list of veterans is urged to contact me at the above address with information.

Baker, William Solomon, Company M and D Engineers; born 21 February 1871 Adair County, died 20 August 1945 Gradyville, buried Union Cemetery; son of Thomas J. Baker and Julia Ann Waggener; merchant and farmer.

Banks, William J., Company L, 4 KY Infantry; born 14 February 1862, died 13 October 1963, buried Columbia City Cemetery.

Burton, George W., Corporal, Company C, 4 MO Infantry; born 5 February 1871, died 11 December 1932, buried Columbia City Cemetery; married Laurena E. Coomer, Lemuel, Company E, 4 KY Infantry, served 1898-1899; born 7 November 1871, died 17 July 1910, buried McClister Cemetery.

Cundiff, Schuyler, enlisted in the U.S. Army circa 1898; reenlisted for three years in 1905.

Earl, Matthew Cabbel, 17 Battery Cas. Det. Field Artillery, US Army; served 1901-1929; of Adair County.

Flowers, George, "recently returned from the Philippines"; son of G.T. Flowers of Gradyville community. [Adair County News, 14 May 1902, Gradyville letter]

Floyd, Loren E., Company I, 1 KY, U.S. Army, served 1898-1899; of Adair County.

Garner, William, Sergeant, 28 U.S. Infantry, KY; died 1931, age 51.

Ingram, Phillip Henry, Sergeant, Battery D, 1 Artillery and Troop G, 13 Cavalry; served 1898-1899 and 1901-1906, six years in US Army, two years in Philippines; born 24 October 1877, died 23 February 1954 in Adair, aged 76, buried Columbia City Cemetery, married Ella Cundiff.

Lawhorn, Noah, resided near Glensfork in 1915.

Nell, George E., of Adair County, served three years during the Spanish-American War; candidate for Adair County Sheriff in 1917.

Patteson, Montgomery Russell, Company F, 2 KY Volunteers; born 19 September 1872, died 4 October 1898, buried Columbia City Cemetery; son of Capt. Oliver Bomar Patteson and Mary Bell Russell Patteson of Adair County.

Roberts, Arthur—Arthur Roberts, who was a soldier in the United States army, a native of Sparksville, died at Sandy Hook, New Jersey, last Thursday. Immediately after his death his mother, who is a poor widow woman, received a dispatch, asking if she wanted the remains. She answered "yes." Another message followed, telling her that she would have to deposit forty dollars with the expressman to pay the charges. She had not the money but before she could reply the remains were started, arriving at Campbellsville Monday afternoon. They were sent C.O.D. and cannot be removed by the dead soldier's friends until the forty dollars is paid. It will be impossible for the mother to raise the money and the authorities will probably order the body buried at Campbellsville. [Adair County News, Wednesday, October 9, 1901]

Arthur Roberts, a soldier in the war with Spain, is dead in Adair [County]. [Semi-weekly Interior Journal, (Stanford, KY) Tuesday, October 8, 1901] [Research on Private Roberts courtesy of J.D. Garner]

Stanton, Arthur E., Company K, 1 Battery Engineers, U.S. Army, served 1899-1902; listed as "of Adair County" on the Veterans' Bonus list. He was the first Town Marshal of Russell Springs, 1910; son of J.G. Stanton who resided at Russell Springs in 1908; resided Russell Springs in early 1900s.

Tabor, Loren W., born 1 January 1876, died 3 October 1953, buried Columbia City Cemetery, resided near Fairplay.

White, Montia C. "Mont", Corporal; born 2 October 1875, died 12 April1901, buried Columbia City Cemetery; son of Jesse V. and Kittie F. White, of Columbia, stationed in Philippines, died enroute from California to Columbia, while accompanied by his father. Also serving in same company was C.E. Keene, of near Amandaville, Cumberland County. [Adair County News, 5 September 1917; Columbia City Cemetery]

Winfrey, Charles S. "Charlie", native of Columbia, son of Thomas and Jennie Saufley Winfrey, lived at Columbia until age 19 years, veteran of the Spanish-American War and World War I, member of the Baptist Church, died at age 63 in early September 1944 in a Dallas, Texas hospital. "Survived by his wife and two brothers, William O. Winfrey, Dallas, and George B. Winfrey, Los Angeles, Calif." [Adair County News, 4 October 1944]

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Saving Your Memories of Small Schools

How many readers have ever seen these rare species? Hazel Green Bullfrogs, Fredonia Yellowjackets, Greenville Black Hawks.

You had better look fast because they are disappearing because of one of the worst decisions ever made about education in this country: school consolidation.

These were the names of the teams of the small independent schools that were absorbed into huge centralized schools. Two generations later, people have realized that was a mistake with frightening unintended consequences.

Large schools encourage anonymity and a mob mentality that is promulgated by that anonymity. Drugs, weapons, gangs, assaults, tobacco and alcohol abuse flourish in these large schools because students can escape detection based on sheer weight of numbers. If I saw a student smoking in the restroom at Lafayette, I had little chance of getting him to the office if I did not know his name. A random search at any large school would turn up several of the items listed. Schools spend money for law enforcement and security cameras, yet the problems persist.

Add to that the sense of disenfranchisement and apathy rooted in the belief that no one really cares how a student does in school because they blends into a faceless background. I attended Wayne County High School in the early seventies with about 150 people in the graduating class and maybe 600 overall. Everybody knew everybody else. If a student was having problems in school or out of school, concerned teachers and staff were aware of the situation and tried to help. Peer pressure to behave properly was a significant deterrent to bad behavior. I never heard of anyone being suspended or expelled, not did I hear of teachers taking "mental days" to recover from the combat zone mentality that permeates schools today.

Consolidation destroyed education in more subtle ways. Our high school basketball team played about seven other high schools in Pulaski County, e.g. Nancy, Shopville, Lily. Each of these team played twelve boys for a total of 84 players actively involved. Now there are three high schools in Pulaski County with a total of 36 players. A lot of Kentucky boys dream of playing basketball for a school, but consolidation has diminished the possibility for most boys.

The same argument can be made for any of the service or student organization bodies like band, Key Club, and class officers. All high schools had those clubs each with its own officers. The opportunity to develop leadership skills has vanished for most kids. Parental apathy tracks that of the students in large schools. On some PTA Open House Nights in Fayette County, I would have ten parents visit. In small schools that were the center of the community, parents were more likely to attend because they and their children had a sense of ownership in the school. We waste billions of dollars on busing as a means of social engineering that has produced a lot of turmoil. More socioeconomic homogeneity among students in small schools resulted in less interclass strife.

The rationale for bigger schools was to provide more opportunities, especially in better-equipped science labs and so on. Considering the poor standing of science education in this country, that clearly has not happened. Schools are still lacking in sufficient equipment to teach lab based classes and most science teachers do not have the training or desire to teach lab-based classes. The educational world has begun to admit its mistake. A recent trend is the idea of smaller learning communities to simulate the small school in mega schools. New studies have suggested that high schools have no more than 700-900 total enrollment.

The worldwide web can alter the learning environment in a way that nullifies the need for large school. The calculus teacher at Lafayette provided an excellent course to students in three high schools using technology.

But the disappearance of the small schools is robbing Kentucky of a piece of its educational history. In an attempt to counter that, I am trying to collect information from the last generation of the people who attended those schools. I am asking anyone who is so inclined to contact me with information about your high school.

Specifically, I would like to know the following:

The name of the school, location, size, years of operation;

The name of its athletics teams, the basketball region it was in and the high point in its team history, its major rivals;

The culture and climate of the school;

What classes were offered at the school;

Your fondest memory of your years there;

Copies of any photographs of the schools.

My goal is to produce sixteen booklets, one for each basketball region, that will help preserve memory of these small schools that would be lost otherwise.

I can be reached at rlguffey1@insightbb.com or Roger L. Guffey, 2394 LaRochelle Road, Lexington, KY 40504.

I look forward to hearing your memories before they are lost forever.

Adair County's Elizabeth McGaha Graduates From 2012 Summer Class Of Rogers Scholars Program

Adair County High School student Elizabeth McGaha has graduated from The Center for Rural Development's 2012 Rogers Scholars youth leadership program.

The Rogers Scholars program—The Center's flagship youth program—provides leadership and exclusive scholarship opportunities for rising high school juniors in Southern and Eastern Kentucky and encourages graduates to build their careers in the region.

"This has been an experience of a lifetime, because I have met so many amazing people that I will be friends with for the rest of my life," said McGaha. "Rogers Scholars is a wonderful program, and it has enriched my leadership skills."

The second, and final, summer session of Rogers Scholars was held July 8-13 on the grounds of The Center in Somerset.

Lonnie Lawson, president and CEO of The Center, and Delaney Stephens, youth programs coordinator and community liaison, presented certificates of completion to Rogers Scholars graduates on the final day of the program during an awards ceremony and graduation program at The Center.

"The Rogers Scholars program is changing the lives of young people all across Southern and Eastern Kentucky," Lawson said. "Rogers Scholars graduates—some of our best and brightest students in the region—are our future leaders and entrepreneurs and hope for a brighter tomorrow."

Students apply during their sophomore year and attend the Rogers Scholars program before the start of their junior year in high school.

"The second, and final, graduating class of the 2012 Rogers Scholars program showed leadership capabilities that are a promising sign of what this region can look forward to in the future," said Stephens. "Each one of these Scholars will impact their communities through their leadership skills and the community service mindset they possess."

McGaha is the daughter of Kim and Greg Dykes and Keith McGaha of Columbia.

Graduates of the program also earn access to exclusive college scholarship offers from some of the state's top-ranked colleges and universities.

Since 1998, approximately 872 high school students have graduated from Rogers Scholars, and potential scholarships valued at more than $7.2 million have been offered to graduates from 16 participating partner colleges and universities.

For more information about Rogers Scholars or any of the other youth programs at The Center, contact Delaney Stephens at 606-677-6000 or email .

All of The Center's youth programs are provided free of charge to selected participants and are operated solely on financial contributions and charitable donations.

Established in 1996 through the vision of U.S. Congressman Harold "Hal" Rogers, (KY-05), and other leaders, The Center for Rural Development is a nonprofit organization fueled by a mission to provide leadership that stimulates innovative and sustainable economic development solutions and a better way of life in Southern and Eastern Kentucky. In its 42-county primary service region, The Center provides innovative programs in leadership, public safety, technology, and arts and culture. The Center is committed to constantly expanding its capabilities in order to deliver a range of key services throughout Kentucky and the nation.

Lonnie Lawson, right, president and CEO of The Center for Rural Development, and Delaney Stephens, left, youth programs coordinator and community liaison, present Rogers Scholars graduate Elizabeth McGaha of Adair County with a certificate acknowledging her completion in the program. McGaha, a junior at Adair County High School, graduated from the 2012 Rogers Scholars program held July 8-13 on the grounds of The Center in Somerset.

Melton And Lee Share PRIDE Message In Adair County

For 15 years now, PRIDE has been empowering Southern and Eastern Kentuckians to transform their communities, and Adair County volunteers are still needed to maximize the benefits of the PRIDE environmental cleanup and education campaign locally.

That's the message Judge-Executive Ann Melton and Lisa Greer shared this spring as volunteer Ambassadors for PRIDE, which is the nonprofit organization seeking to improve water quality, fight solid waste problems and promote environmental education in 38 counties of Southern and Eastern Kentucky.

Melton and Greer reached a total of 840 people in separate speaking engagements. Their audiences were primarily students in Head Start through sixth grade. Melton also addressed the Lake Cumberland Area Development District.

Across the region, PRIDE Ambassadors informed a total of 2,286 people about PRIDE's 15th anniversary and PRIDE Spring Cleanup Month, which was April. These were the topics of the latest public outreach campaign by the Ambassadors — a team of volunteers who are dedicated to increasing participation in PRIDE activities in their counties.

"We appreciate Judge Melton and Lisa Greer for their help in celebrating the astounding success our region has enjoyed by pulling together with PRIDE over the last 15 years," said PRIDE's Tammie Wilson. "For example, volunteers have picked up 699,442 bags of trash, and schools have built 397 outdoor classrooms since 1997."

"To make the most of the PRIDE program in your community, you need to get involved," Wilson said. "It doesn't require a lot of time. Once or twice a year, rally your friends and family to clean a spot that is important to you. As often as you can, pick up litter near your workplace or during your evening walks."

"If you want to learn more about how to bring PRIDE to your community, then please remember the PRIDE Ambassadors are available to speak to groups of all ages, from scouts to churches to civic clubs, and they can cover several topics, from volunteerism to recycling to energy conservation," Wilson said.

"If you want to invite Judge Melton, Lisa or a PRIDE staff member to speak to your group, please call the PRIDE office, toll free, at 888-577-4339," she added.

PRIDE, which stands for "Personal Responsibility In a Desirable Environment," was founded in 1997 by Congressman Hal Rogers and General James E. Bickford, who was the state's Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet. Their vision was to encourage and equip communities to restore the natural beauty of their native region.

•3.7 Cents Tax

interest in voting on the tax, as White works for one of the seven banks in the consortium that holds the loans, and Harden's wife works for one of the banks in the consortium. However, when chairman Evans asked them if they had any problem voting on the measure, both stated they didn't.

In discussion prior to the vote, Harden said that the tax has to be imposed, or the hospital could face foreclosure and be closed.

"We're already in default on the loans, and if the sale doesn't go through, the banks can foreclose and have the courts impose a tax so they can recoup their money," Hardin said. "The banks would set the rate, and it could be 10 cents, 20 cents (per $100 of assessed value) or higher.

"I talked to one of the bankers, Terry Pugh (from First and Farmers National Bank in Somerset) this morning, and he said that is what will be done if the sale doesn't happen. That's why we've got to have this 3.7 cents rate."

When Evans called for a vote, the motion to adopt the resolution imposing the tax passed by a unanimous 4-0 vote. (Board member John Nall resigned from the board earlier in the month, so there are only four members on the board at the present time.)

After the vote by the Hospital District Board of Trustees, a meeting of the Adair County Public Hospital District Corporation Board of Trustees was called to order. The corporation board is composed of the hospital board, and they again voted 4-0 to approve the resolution of implementation of the tax.

Interim CEO Rodger Klein said that a copy of the tax resolution adopted by the board would be hand delivered to County Clerk Sheila Blair later in the day, and a copy would also be sent to Frankfort to the Department of Local Government.

The county is presently awaiting an opinion from Attorney General Jack Conway's office as to whether or not the tax would be subject to a recall vote.

If it is subject to recall, County Clerk Sheila Blair said a committee would have to be formed and enough signatures obtained (10 percent of the number of voters who voted in the last presidential election, or 755), in order for it to be placed on the general election. Because of the time allowed to obtain the petition names for a recall, the deadline is Sept. 4, the matter will not be placed on the general election ballot this year. Since there are no elections in Kentucky in 2013, the matter would not appear on the ballot until the 2014 general election.

Blair said that as of noon Tuesday, no one had inquired about forming a committee to circulate a recall petition.

"If we get the second draft back and there are only a few minor changes, or no changes at all, to be made, the hospital board should have the contract to sign by next week's board meeting," he continued. "If they don't, it (the agreement) will be awfully close."

According to Westlake Interim CEO Rodger Klein, LifePoint will pay $12.9 million for the hospital's assets. The original offer was $12.5 million, but Klein said they have been able negotiate another $400,000, bringing the total purchase price to $12.9 million.

The hospital currently owes the bank consortium that holds the bond loans $12.4 million. It also owes the county $1.7 million, $2 million to the state for Medicaid reimbursement (for overcharges made by the rural health clinics that have accumulated over the years), plus an additional $2 million in accounts payable, bringing its total debt to roughly $18.1 million.

"This would be a $5-6 million gross shortfall, but there will be money coming in over the next nine to 12 months that will reduce the net loss to roughly $3 million," Klein said.

The hospital board intends to use the 3.7 cents per $100 of assessed value ad valorem tax it voted to implement last week to pay off the remainder of the debt over the long term.

According to Doran, the bank consortium has been working closely with them, and the sale to LifePoint takes place, the hospital would have enough money to satisfy all the debts other than a portion of the consortium loans, which would be paid off over the long term with revenues from the tax.

"We've been meeting with the bank consortium on a weekly basis, and they have been very good to work with," Doran said. "They don't want to see the sale fall through and the hospital possibly have to close."

If the sale were not to take place, Doran said the hospital would have to go into bankruptcy, and that's something no one wants to see happen.

"We (Spectrum Health Partners) just got through dealing with another case in which a hospital had to declare bankruptcy and be sold," he said. "This was a hospital larger than Westlake, and it only sold for $4 million. A bankruptcy sale for Westlake would probably bring only around $3 million.

"If that were to happen, the bank consortium could go through the courts and get a tax imposed to collect what would be owed, and they would be able to have a levy much higher than the 3.7 cents the hospital district has set."

finish in the sprint and a fourth-place finish in the long course.

It was the fifth time Dillery has competed in the national event, and this year was his best showing.

"It's just a lot of fun," Dillery said. "I like the people involved with the event. They are really fun people to be with."

When Dillery first competed in the national event in the late-1990s, "I didn't do very well, but I had a really good time."

Dillery said that one of the appeals of competing in a canoe race on a white-water river is the thrill the sport gives participants.

"It's one of those things that, while you are doing it, it gets your adrenalin going because of the excitement," he said. "But at the same time, you know that if you follow all of the safety rules, it's a pretty safe sport."

Dillery equates riding a river's white-water rapids to "like getting on a roller coaster."

"You know you're going to be OK, but the whole time you're heading down that first hill it does feel a little risky," he said.

Tax Hearing Shows Opposition, Raises Several More Questions

BY PAUL B. HAYES
EDITOR

The public hearing held last Thursday morning by the Adair County Public Hospital District to obtain input on their proposal to reinstate a 3.7 cents per $100 ad valorem tax drew criticism from those in attendance, and raised several questions that were left unanswered or were unanswerable.

The first thing to come under criticism was the time of the meeting – 9 a.m.

"I think its ridiculous to have a public hearing at nine o'clock in the morning," Magistrate Billy Rowe said. "It should have been in the evening when more people would have had a chance to come."

As far as the proposed tax itself, most of those in the crowd of 25 or so spoke out against it. Despite this fact, the board voted unanimously to enact the tax at a special-called meeting on Friday.

"It's a bad tax," Bill Anderson said. "There should not be a tax for incompetence. The boards let all this happen."

Several people questioned why weren't the former management staff, which many believe to be responsible for hospital's situation, being investigated.

"Why aren't the people who are responsible not being asked to give back substantial part of their assets?" Sue Reed asked. "You need to go after the people responsible first. There's a lot of cover ups and a lot of lies being told. We need answers."

"Some things are being looked at by the people who are supposed to look at those things," Westlake Interim CEO Rodger Klein, who chaired the hearing, said. "But they don't talk to us."

When asked about the forensic audit, Klein said that it has been completed, but only the board members have seen it, no one else has.

Westlake Board of Trustees chairman James Evans, speaking about a potential investigation, said. "I'll give you the standard answer federal agencies give, 'We can neither confirm or deny that an investigation is going on'.

Klein said that he could not say whether or not authorities have looked at the forensic audit.

Bob Reed, a retired CPA, said the hospital should be able to recover some of the shortfall from the auditing company that did the audit and did not report the losses that were incurred.

"Most auditors are required to maintain insurance," Reed said. "I can't believe an auditor can not be held responsible."

The question was asked, "How can we pay taxes to repay a debt when we don't know how much we owe? What is the shortfall?"

Klein said the figure changes constantly, but placed it around $3 million.

After several more comments were made, many of them variances of previously asked questions, Magistrate Sammy Baker probably best summed up the situation.

"It's been a bad storm for Adair County," Baker said. "The best thing we can do is try to put this behind us, continue to provide health care for Adair County, and move on."

One of the newly remodeled Jacuzzi suites was on display Monday evening at the open house for the Columbia Best Western. The hotel is now under the ownership of Raj Idnani.

Best Western Celebrates Renovation With Open House

BY WES FEESE

Columbia Best Western's new owner, Raj Idnani, hosted an open house Monday evening, opening up his newly renovated grounds to the public. "We just want to reintroduce this property to the local community," Idnani stated.

Idnani, along with his company's vice president Ravi Godhwani, hotel manager Josh Eastridge, and Best Western Regional Service Manager Stefanie Gaither, gave tours of the remodeled rooms, provided free food and drinks in the newly refurbished lobby area, and talked a great deal about all the work that has been done since Idnani bought the place about six months ago. "We wanted to thank the community and we appreciate all your business," said Idnani.

New carpet, bedding, and drapes have been put in, free Wi-Fi is now available, and two Jacuzzi suites have been installed, one smoking, and one non-smoking.

As a pledge to his desire to provide the best service possible, Idnani has listed his personal cell phone number in every one of the rooms, something Gaither said she had never seen in any of the 41 hotels she oversees.

Idnani, a former engineer, owns about thirty hotels across the country, including the Holliday Inn in Campbellsville.

•Heard from Superintendent Reed about the beautification project currently underway at the schools. "We're removing old, broken, and out of date equipment," Reed stated. The project is going as planned and the board is hopeful that the result will be a safer, more aesthetically pleasing campus.

•Heard from two mothers wishing to keep their children at ACES even though they have been zoned for Colonel William Casey. Both students will be in kindergarten this fall but attended ACES in pre-school. One parent stated her reason for the request as keeping her daughter with the speech teacher she has worked with the past two years. The student made progress with that teacher and the mother did not want her to regress.

The other mother explained that her son speaks English as a second language and having to switch schools would cause anxiety from having to get accustomed to a new place and meeting new people all over again.

Although the board said that they generally wouldn't grant such requests, since all of the students would have to change schools next year, it would be in the students best interest to remain at ACES, and not have to change schools two years in a row.

•Approved the minutes from the June meeting. All board members were present for the meeting.

FROM ONE VETERAN to another. Edwin Taylor, a Vietnam veteran, recently made fellow veteran Edgar Holmes a walking cane that Taylor fashioned from and old tobacco stick, then varnished it and inscribed it with Holmes'name and rank. In return, Holmes gave Taylor a hand-made gift, a five-piece wooden puzzle that he crafts at his home. Taylor holds the puzzle in his hand for a close-up view. (Photos by Paul B. Hayes)

The students joined more than 150 other American singers to give concerts at St. Peter's Basilica and the Basilica of Saint Maria Sopra Minerva.

"It's really hard to put into words what this experience means to our students and choral program," said LWC Associate Professor of Music and Director of Choral Programs Gerald Chafin, who led the tour. "It was such a tremendous experience that broadened our students' perspectives in innumerable ways."

The LWC group also toured Lugano, Switzerland, as well as the Italian cities of Florence, Milan, Rome, Siena, Venice and Verona.

"I know that later I'm going to remember a lot of things from this trip, but right now my head is still spinning because it was just an incredible experience," said LWC student Allison Chafin of Columbia.

Some of the famous sights the LWC group explored included the balcony in Verona mentioned in William Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet, ancient Roman ruins and the Vatican City. They also saw Pope Benedict XVI from a couple hundred yards when the pontiff made a public appearance to attend the funeral of a Vatican official.

"Overwhelming" was the adjective several other students used to describe the experience of touring and performing in Switzerland and Italy.

LWC had a total of 15 voices in the 172-member choir: the 13 LWC students plus alumnus Tyler McCubbins and Gerald Chafin.

Adding to the experience for the LWC group was that student Chelsea Pike of Campbellsville, Ky., was invited to perform a solo at a performance at the Basilica of Saint Maria Sopra Minerva in Rome.

"Singing at the Basilica of Saint Maria place was one of the most meaningful experiences we had," Ferguson said. "The fact that Chelsea got to do a solo made it more meaningful because we had one of our own in the spotlight."

To make the trip the students paid a good portion of the cost with the remainder covered by donations from LWC alumni and friends.

"The fact that they want to see Lindsey Wilson prosper and for us to get the most out of our college experience really made a difference to us," Allison Chafin said. "I'm just so touched when people who have been blessed financially use some of their money to change other people's lives. It makes me want to do the same thing for the college later in my life."

> "It's still kind of > overwhelming.
> I don't know if I've > taken it all in yet..."
> LWC Singer Andrew Ferguson of Columbia.

Addy Reed Wins Gold At US Open Taekwonda Hanmandang

Addaline Reed, the eight-year-old daughter of Thomas Reed and granddaughter of Fay and Kenny Davidson, took home two gold and one silver medal from the US Open Taekwondo Hanmandang in Colorado Springs, CO held at the World and Olympic Training Centers.

She placed first in creative board breaking and team form competitions and second in individual form in her age/form division. The Hanmandang saw approximately 1000 competitors and several former Olympic competitors including demonstrations from Korean teams.

Addy is currently a student of Grand Master Kim of Tiger Kim's Taekwondo in Lexington, Kentucky and just completed her test to become a blue belt. All seven of the participants Grand Master Kim entered in the tournament received medals in every event.

Addy will move on to a tournament in Atlanta in August where she will again compete for individual form and creative board breaking. She travels several times a week during the summer from Columbia to Lexington to train with the award winning Grand Master Kim and would love to see more Columbians in her dojang.

Registration Now Open For Kentucky Senior Games

Murray is proud to host the 2012 Kentucky Senior Games. The games will be held October 3-7, 2012.

Athletes ages 50 and over are encouraged to participate in the events. The games are for those who love competition, serious athletes or those who simply enjoy staying fit. The National Senior Games Association sanctions the Kentucky Senior Games.

The multi-sport event allows athletes to compete in: a 5K, archery, badminton, basketball, bowling, cycling, golf, horseshoes, pickleball, a racewalk, racquetball, shuffleboard, softball, swimming, table tennis, tennis, track and field and volleyball. Participants will also be able to enjoy special events such as a fun day, dance and the opening ceremony.

Registration for the games is now open; the deadline to sign up is Friday, August 31, 2012.

Erin Carrico, executive director of the Murray Convention and Visitors Bureau said, "Hosting the Kentucky Senior Games will be a community-wide effort and we are excited to have visitors from all over the state here in Murray."

The registration packet is available online at kyseniorgames.com or contact the Murray Convention and Visitors Bureau at 1.800.651.1603 or Stephanie Butler at for more information.

Campbellsville University To Host Annual Athletic Boosters Auction August 9th

BY CHRIS MEGGINSON, SPORTS INFORMATION DIRECTOR

Campbellsville University will host her eighth annual Athletic Booster Club auction and dinner on Aug. 9 at 6 p.m. in the Winters Dining Hall.

The annual event will begin at 6 p.m. with the silent auction items (approximately 20) open for bid and the meal scheduled to start at 6:30 p.m. in the Winters Dining Hall on Campus.

Toward the end of the meal, a live auction will feature approximately 30 items, which include sports collectibles, golf outings and vacation destinations. Some of the most popular vacation spots include a week-long trip to a three-bedroom condo in Naples and a week's stay in Aruba.

Pioneer College Caterers Inc. will once again provide the meal for the auction with a planned menu of bacon-wrapped beef tenderloin with grilled shrimp skewers, loaded mashed potatoes, fresh green beans and a field greens salad with a strawberry vinaigrette.

"This event continues to grow each year. We hope it continues to become a community tradition and something that people are looking forward to," said Chuck Vaughn, director of CU's athletic booster club, the Big Maroon Club.

"We've grown a steady base of supporters over the years, but are always welcome to new people. If you've never been before, we hope you can attend this year. It's a fun night with great food, good conversations and competitive bidding. Everyone leaves feeling good about the night."

Each year, the auction helps kick off the upcoming university athletics calendar and booster club fundraising efforts. Over the past five years, the event has brought in more than $60,000 and has seen a steady increase each year.

Last year, the Campbellsville community and university alumni and friends set a record by raising more than $18,000 with 18 event sponsorships© a major increase from more than $7,000 and three sponsorships in 2007.

Cost for the event is $25 per person and the attire is business casual. Tickets are on sale now through Aug. 3.

Campbellsville University coaching staffs, Big Maroon Club members and the CU Office of Development are selling tickets.

For more information about tickets, contact Chuck Vaughn, director of the Big Maroon Club, at (270) 789-5149.

Tax deductions are also available for sponsorships and donated auction items.

For more information on being a sponsor or donating an auction item, contact the CU office of development at (270) 789-5211.

There are three sponsorships levels available: a Gold sponsorship of $500, Silver of $250 and Bronze of $125. All proceeds from the night go to Campbellsville University's 24 varsity athletic programs for 2012-2013.

Auctioneers for the night will be Campbellsville's John Kessler and Rufus Hansford.

Glyphosate Flash-Soybeans

A group of Adair County soybean growers noticed a strange cast to their soybeans last week. Newly developed leaves were very pale in color, however the soybeans looked healthy otherwise. These symptoms were caused by recent applications of glyphosate. In warm, humid conditions while soybeans are undergoing rapid growth, an application of glyphosate can cause a "yellow flash" in the uppermost portion of the plant. Symptoms are generally short term and no yield loss is associated. Since the combination of certain conditions must exist, this is not a common occurrence. Most generally, symptoms only occur in areas of spray overlap. It is also suspected that some varieties are more tolerant than others. The current understanding is that there is a temporary reduction in chlorophyll content within the affected leaves as the glyphosate converts to AMPA (a metabolite) and accumulates within the actively growing plant tissue. The AMPA has a temporary toxic effect that results in a reduction in chlorophyll content. Although manganese binding with glyphosate has been mentioned in some popular press as a potential cause, research trials in which manganese fertilizer has been added does not eliminate the yellow flash. Thus, the binding of glyphosate with micronutrients is not likely to be the cause of these symptoms.

Check Beyond Field Borders

Driving through Adair County, several corn fields have eye appeal from the road. Outside rows boast a well developed ear with good pollination. Further into most fields where population is higher and temperatures tend to be a few degrees higher, smaller ears with poor pollination exist. Be sure to take a good look inside those corn fields and get a feel for potential yield. In fields where yields will be poor, there may still be adequate moisture to salvage the crop for silage.

PET TIP of the Week

Think carefully before taking a pet with you in the car when you go shopping, even with the windows rolled down 4 inches, the car will turn into an oven, dogs and cats die in parked cars.

To Can Or To Freeze?

Soon, many vegetables and fruits will be ready for harvesting, and many gardeners will have more produce than they can readily eat. Those who want to preserve fresh, summer foods for later consumption will consider either freezing or canning the harvest. But is one way of preservation better than the other? The answer depends on the type of food you want to preserve.

If proper techniques and correct temperatures are used, frozen foods retain greater amounts of their vitamin content, natural color, flavor and texture.

Freezing foods preserves them by stopping or slowing the growth of microorganisms that cause food-borne illnesses and spoilage.

Freezing is perhaps the easiest food preservation method, but not all foods freeze well. Some vegetables with high water content are not well suited for use as raw vegetables after freezing, but work well as ingredients in cooked dishes, like soups. Green, leafy vegetables like lettuce, cabbage and celery can become limp and watery. They may also develop an oxidized flavor when frozen. Foods containing eggs or milk may separate water from solids or become tough, frothy or watery depending on the other ingredients. Freezing fried foods can cause them to lose their crispness and become soggy.

Like freezing, canning, when done correctly, can stop the growth of microorganisms that cause food-borne illnesses and spoilage. Canning is a safe and cost-effective way to preserve foods. Many fruits and vegetables begin losing their nutritive value once harvested, so it's best to can foods at the peak of freshness. This is usually within six to 12 hours after harvesting or purchasing from a farmers market.

You should know the acidity of the food you are canning. Foods high in acid can be prepared in a boiling water canner while low-acid foods must be preserved using a pressure canner to minimize food-borne illnesses.

If you're canning for the first time or have previous experience but want to can a new food, check that the food has recommended canning guidelines from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. These guidelines can be found in USDA' s Complete Guide to Home Canning available online at http://nchfp.uga.edu/publications/publications_usda.html. Do not can foods lacking USDA guidelines, as the absence of guidelines for a particular food is likely due to a safety or quality concern.

The amount of freezer space or access to canning supplies and equipment are additional factors to consider when choosing the best way to preserve fresh summer produce. As food consumers become more familiar with food preservation, the question of freezing or canning becomes a choice based on taste, food preferences, convenience and available resources.

The University of Kentucky offers extension publications on the correct way to freeze and can foods. For more information on food preservation, contact the Adair County Cooperative Extension Service.

RITA AND DANNY BURTON held their annual "Burton Ridge Extravaganza" on Saturday, July 14, at their Burton Auction House on KY 206. A huge potluck meal is always a big part of the day's activities, and this year was no exception. Above, some of the crowd made their way down both sides of the long table filling their plates. (Photos by Paul B. Hayes)

FRANKIE BURTON held his grandson, Blaine Burton, while granddaughter Caydence Burton sat beside him at the gathering. They are the children of Kevin and Heather Burton.

YOUNG PEOPLE took to the pool at Danny and Rita Burton's gathering as one way to beat the heat. Pictured, in front, are Macie Drake, Shelby Rogers and Hailey Spagnoletti. In back on the raft are brothers Owen and Nolan Taylor.

DAVIS TURNER, left, playing guitar, and Murrell Burton provided some of the musical entertainment for the "Extravaganza," performing a wide range of gospel songs.

HOSTS DANNY and Rita Burton watched and listened to the music in the door of the auction house. A good rain cooled things down somewhat, but didn't have any effect on the gathering as the music stage was on a large covered porch.

RITA BURTON took the stage and performed at the gathering. One of the most popular songs she sang was a duet with Davis Turner, "Jackson."

Welcome to Chamber Insights – July 2012

The monthly newsletter of the Columbia-Adair County Chamber of Commerce

Editor: Sue Stivers
President's Message: Roger Meadows
Feature Writer: Ron Heath, Ramie Hutchison

The Purpose of the Columbia-Adair County Chamber of Commerce is to promote and enhance the Business, Cultural, Educational and Civic Well Being of Columbia and Adair County.

President's Message

By: Roger Meadows

This is the time of year most people will take their vacation. The kids are out of school, the weather will be nice almost anywhere you choose to go, so we pack up the car and head out for that much needed break.

According to a survey conducted at the end of last year by the workforce consulting firm Right Management, about 70 percent of U.S. workers say they didn't use all their vacation time in 2011. These findings are consistent with their 2009 survey when it was found that two-thirds of employees did not take all vacation time due them. Vacation is a core benefit earned by employees, Right Management Senior Vice President Michael Haid observed. "Vacation is fundamental to a healthy, productive workforce. By itself, foregoing a few days off may not be significant, but when so many people think they shouldn't take the time they're entitled to we have problems. These may include unnecessary turnover, low retention, absenteeism, frequent health or safety claims or a host of other HR issues."

For the Small Business Owner, you started your business for the freedom you would have but are not sure how your business will survive if you take some time off.

Plan your vacation around slow periods if your business is seasonal, or there are predictable times when work is slow. Instead of spending your vacation worrying about your business, use the time to look at it from a new perspective. Vacations can be a source of inspiration.

Taking a vacation is the perfect opportunity to test the abilities of your staff to handle things while you're away. To make yourself feel more comfortable while away consider the following items.

- Establish a contingency plan with the staff as to how to contact you in case of an emergency.
- Establish a time each day to talk with your staff while you're away, then enjoy the remainder of your day with your family.

For the self employed, spend time with your customers prior to taking time off to let them know you will be out, and fulfill needs they will have while you are gone prior to leaving.

Employees and Managers need time off, and when they return from vacation, they're refreshed; they come back with fresh eyes and a newfound excitement for work.

Free Presentation Tools For Businesses

By: Ramie Hutchinson

Have you ever tried to get your message across creatively to customers, vendors or colleagues, only to find out that you don't have the tools or budget to create elaborate presentations?

If so, don't worry. There is an easy way to create stunning and captivating presentations online at Prezi.com.

Prezi is a cloud-based (Internet-based) presentation software that opens up a new world between whiteboards and slides. The zoomable canvas makes it fun to explore ideas and the connections between them. The result: visually captivating presentations that lead your audience down a path of discovery.

You can sign up for a public account for free, or for a pro account for only $14 a month to get unlimited features. You can choose what's best for your company or you personally, but either way the options are endless.

Let your audience zoom through text and photos at their own pace on Facebook, Twitter, or in an auditorium. To check out how Prezi works, visit Prezi.com

Retail & Consumer Tips – Making Changes

The next time you are tempted to blame "management" for not giving you what you need to take care of your customers…the next time you decide to wait until they change things before you change things, think about these ten items and be bold. Do what you can to change things and you will get the support you need.

1. Vision is motivating. Everyone in a business or organizations should understand the vision and be involved in the planning.
2. It's not enough to talk about what needs to be changed…You need to pitch in and work to change it.
3. When you are committed and work hard and when others can see that…they want to join in the fun.
4. Teamwork makes a big job more manageable.
5. The world is full of helpful people and when you do the right thing they will appear.
6. Some people need to be told what they are doing and why…others can see it clearly from the start.
7. Pride in job well done is shared.
8. Timing is everything. Don't put off what needs to be done, just do it!
9. "De-briefing"…discussing a project or event after it's over provides valuable and lasting lessons.
10. And lastly, Celebrate the accomplishment.

New Member Hi-Lights

The Chamber is extremely happy to welcome the following new members.

By joining the Chamber you become a part of an organization that is dedicated to the economic growth and prosperity of Columbia and Adair County. The Chamber is the "Business Voice" of Adair County and the Commonwealth of Kentucky. Your investment in the Chamber means an "investment" in your community.

Corporate Sponsor

SelfRefind

Thank you SelfRefind for being Corporate Sponsor of the Month. The following remarks were made by Keith Tiemeyer, Corporate Operations Director, at the monthly Chamber meeting.

SelfRefind is a group of clinics strategically located throughout Kentucky that treat people addicted to pain killers. We utilize medication assisted treatment that is physician directed and patient centric. We provide psychiatric evaluations, counseling, standardized treatment protocols, and a structured accountability system that includes pill counts and drug screening.

We have developed a group of more than 50 physicians, psychiatric nurse practitioners, counselors, and office staff that enjoy being a part of this dynamic process that consistently changes peoples' lives for the better. We would like you to consider us as a resource for people needing opiate addiction recovery services.

Typically we can see patients within 3-5 days of being contacted and our call center can answer any questions anyone – doctors, patients, families - may have about the program. If a physician would like a more extensive conversation about one of their patients, or the treatment program in general, one of our medical directors will be more than happy to provide that information.

We are excited to be part of the Columbia/Adair County community and look forward to hearing from you and contributing to changing families and helping them "get their lives back".

Call us today for any questions you might have at 866-755-4258.

New Seat Belt Law now in Effect

Did you know a new seat belt law went into effect last week? For those of you who use 15-person passenger vans, this law will pertain to you. Senate Bill 89 expands Kentucky's seat belt law to include 15-person passenger vans. The bill was filed in response to a 2010 crash on Interstate 65 near Munfordville that killed 11 people, most of whom were not wearing seat belts. Previously, state law only required seat belt use in vehicles designed to carry ten or fewer passengers.

Welcome Tourists to Our Community

Tourists from throughout Kentucky and other states continue to arrive in Columbia and Adair County. Their first stop is at 201 Burkesville Street…the Chamber of Commerce Building which also serves as the Tourism office. It's the place for tourist information for Adair County, the region, and the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

As these visitors arrive, let's welcome them and show our true southern hospitality. As they come into your business, all employees are encouraged to show them your best customer service. Thank our visitors for their patronage, honor the employees who serve them and show our pride in our industry and attractions.

Our local people know how to recognize our tourists. Say hello, give them a friendly smile and ask if you could help them. Think of a town or city where you have been on vacation and or shopping. Where is the most friendly town or city that you have visited? Let's never forget to show our kindness and hospitality to those who visit our County and Area.

Every Adair County citizen is encouraged to focus on the benefits of travel and tourism in our area. "The dollars spent by visitors have strengthened Columbia and Adair County's economy by creating jobs, supporting local businesses from gas stations to retail stores and generating tax revenues to support our community", said Sue Stivers, Executive Director of the Chamber of Commerce and Tourism Commission.

Tourism is one of Kentucky's top industries with an annual economic impact of $11.7 billion to Kentucky's economy. It employs approximately 170,000 workers statewide and generates more than $1 billion in taxes.

The economic impact to Adair County is more than 10 million dollars per year. Nationally, tourism generates $1.9 trillion in economic output, with more than $800 billion spent directly by domestic and international travelers.

Adair Countians…let's remember to put our best foot forward to our out-of-town folks and invite them to visit again soon!

Welcome Back

Looking Ahead

Sixth Annual Wares Fair Scheduled for August 23rd

By: Ron Heath

The sixth Annual Wares Fair will take place in the Holloway Health and Wellness Center on the Lindsey Wilson campus from 6:00-8:00 p.m. on Thursday August 23rd. Each year this event attracts close to 500 students, faculty, and staff members. Many of the people who attend this event are new to this community and aren't aware of all the goods and services they can find here locally.

The goal of the Wares Fair is to help members of the campus community see what's available so they don't go elsewhere to purchase goods and services they can get here in Columbia and Adair County. The dollars they spend here have a direct impact on the local economy. The Wares Fair is held at the beginning of the school year before students really establish their buying patterns

The slogan the Chamber uses to promote the community is "Columbia and Adair County – a Great Place to Call Home." We like to feel we're a friendly place where people know each other. The Wares Fair provides an opportunity for businesses in the area to give a warm welcome to these new residents in our community. The interaction between members of the campus community and business people allows students, faculty, and staff members to put a face with a business.

This event is a marketing/advertising person's dream. Where else can you have face to face contact with so many potential customers in less than two hours? What's critical for businesses that participate in the Wares Fair is that they focus on the goods or services they have that would be of particular interest or use to students.

Since this is a Chamber event, Chamber members are not charged to participate; they just donate a door prize with a retail value of $25 or more. These door prizes are given away as quickly as possible all during the event. Non–Chamber members may also participate, but they must pay a $25 booth rental fee along with their door prize.

In an effort to encourage students to shop locally, this year there will be four grand prizes given away. Each winner will receive a $250 shopping spree. As these dollars are spent here they then continue to circulate in the community. Even businesses that don't deal directly with college students ultimately will benefit from the dollars they spend locally. We are grateful for this year's co-sponsors for the Grand Prize – Lindsey Wilson College, the Adair Progress, and the Chamber of Commerce.

For more information or to register for space at the Wares Fair, contact the Chamber Office. You can call 270-384-6020, e-mail coladair@duo-county.com, or stop by in person in the office at 801 Burkesville Street.
